I agree with the implication @Blindy made in his comment: don't change the records to make export to CSV easier. You're going to end up with more than you bargained for with statements like `select * from people where Last like "'Ander%'"` Does your flavor of SQL do a CSV export? Many of them do, and you will find it much easier to use a built-in export function instead of rolling your own.

Great post. Yeah, it brings back memories. I remember in the 70s in Cleveland we heard about the Real Book, but couldn't buy one. Then one of our music professors had one in his office and we borrowed it, ran to the copy shop and made a few copies of 30 or 40 tunes that we started learning with a combo I was playing with at the time (we had a regular gig every Sunday at Genesis vegetarian ...
